Historical Note:

Los Angeles was established in 1781 as a pueblo in Alta California, a result of Spanish colonization. Mexico gained its independence from Spain in 1821, and in 1834 the Mexican congress elevated the town of Los Angeles to a ciudad or city.

During the years 1846 through 1848, the U.S. war with Mexico endured with the heaviest battles taken place in southern Mexico (including Buena Vista, Veracruz, and Mexico City). In Los Angeles (January, 1847 – August, 1848) the city fell under American military rule. In 1848, following the end of the U.S. war with Mexico, the United States purchased California from Mexico. Los Angeles and its residents came under American laws and governing bodies, with the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo in place to mete out terms of protections, in particular to the land and property belonging to Californio residents.

The formation of the local government began taking place although California would not be admitted to the Union until September, 1850. Los Angeles County was created after the first American legislature of California divided the state into 27 counties in February, 1850. But in 1851 the boundaries of Los Angeles County expanded to include parts of present-day Kern County (est. 1866); all of present-day San Bernardino County (est. 1853); parts of present-day Riverside County (est. 1893); present-day Orange County (est. 1889); and parts north of former limits to San Diego County.

The first Los Angeles County election took place in April, 1850. The following positions of public office were filled resulting from 377 votes:

Augustín Olvera, County Judge
Benjamin D. Wilson, County Clerk
Benjamin Hayes, County Attorney
John R. Conway, County Surveyor
Manuel Garfias, County Treasurer
Antonio F. Coronel, County Assessor
Ignacio Del Valle, County Recorder
George F. Burrill, County Sheriff
Charles R. Cullen, County Coroner
William C. Ferrell, District Attorney for the state's first district (District 1 covered Los Angeles & San Diego Counties)

The Los Angeles County government also handled judicial, legislative and executive powers until 1852. During that time, the Court of Sessions was presided by the County Judge; under this judge were two Justices of the Peace.

The County Board of Supervisors was established in 1852 to act as a legislative and executive body.

For an in-depth historical study of the county offices of the Tax Collector, Assessor, and County Clerk, their origins, duties, policies, procedures, and legal citation footnotes, consult the following two-volume publication:

Inventory of the county archives of California. Los Angeles (no.20, Tax collector's, Assessor's & County clerk). Prepared by the Southern California Historical Records Survey Project, Division of Professional and Service Projects, Work Projects Administration, 1940-41, Los Angeles, California. (CD 3110.H5 no. 20 v. 1 & v. 2 W.H.)

Scope and Content Note:

Los Angeles County government archival records are predominantly from the Registrar and Recorder's Office and the Tax Collector's Office. The holdings are incomplete. Subject matter includes court records of criminal, civil and probate cases; property and tax records including tax assessments, tax receipts, redemption of real estate certificates, land patents, deeds and mortgages; cattle brand registers and leather brand samples; mining records; voters registers and poll records; and treasurer records including journals. Also there are county-issued serial publications. A container list is available.

Many items are large, bound volumes with handwritten entries, particularly those dated before 1900.

Notable records from the Mexican-era are the Archives of Prefecture (1825-1850).

Geographical Note:

Some of the tax assessment books and voters registers were compiled geographically by Los Angeles City versus Los Angeles County in separate volumes. Also, records naturally include data for places that were once a part of the larger Los Angeles County (see Historical Note above).

Among the published volumes of the voters registers are ones that cover beyond Los Angeles County, i.e. Kern County, San Diego County, northern counties such as Shasta and Butte, and some Arizona territories.
