Scope and Content:

Photographs relating to Ralph Cunningham Hamlin (1880 – 1974): his personal and family life; bicycling; motorcycling; and automobile racing activities; auto road and endurance trips; business matters and associates (including early auto shows); and the Franklin automobile dealerships. Includes a color sketch tribute to Hamlin from artist Charles Owens, with seven photos mounted and a map sketch of the route from Los Angeles to Indio.

Biographical Note:

Ralph Cunningham Hamlin was a pioneer Los Angeles automobile dealer, born October 17, 1880 in San Francisco, California. In 1887 his family settled in Los Angeles during the land boom. Hamlin opened up a bicycle business in 1896. In 1901 he purchased an Orient, an early model motorcycle. He competed in races throughout Southern California for the sport as well as to promote sales in his business. He sold motorcycles, Orient Buckboards, Lozier, and Scripps-Booth automobiles.

Hamlin operated an automobile dealership by 1901 at 1806 So. Main Street, Los Angeles. In 1905 Hamlin became the Southern California distributor for Franklin air-cooled cars, manufactured by the H.H. Franklin Mfg. Co. of Syracuse, New York. His original Franklin dealership was located at 1040 So. Flower Street in Los Angeles. He also acquired a dealership in Hollywood at 5766 Hollywood Boulevard; he also had a Glendale branch selling Franklins under the "Ralph Hamlin" company name. When the Franklin was discontinued in 1932, he went on to sell Graham automobiles. He was instrumental in the creation of the Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers Association about 1909.

A close friend to Hamlin was Henry Workman Keller (who served on the board and as President of the Automobile Club of Southern California.) Keller is pictured in some of the photographs. Hamlin credited Keller with helping him to bring auto racing to the city of Santa Monica called the Santa Monica Road Race. Hamlin competed in the first 1909 race driving a Franklin. Hamlin died in Los Angeles on July 5, 1974 at the age of 93.
