Abstract:

The collection is comprised of the Historical Society of Southern California (HSSC) business archives (1890s-2017), and books, ephemera, photographs and manuscripts all collected by the HSSC. The organization was formed in 1883 to collect and preserve manuscripts, periodicals, newspapers, and both written and oral historical accounts regarding the history of the Pacific Coast in general and of Southern California in particular.

Processing Information:

The collection was processed by Kim Walters in 2021 through a grant funded by the John Randolph Haynes and Dora Haynes Foundation. Walters is also a member of the Board of Directors for Historical Society of Southern California and has in-depth knowledge of the history of the Society.

Historical and Acquisition Note:

Founded in 1883, the Historical Society of Southern California (HSSC) is the oldest historical society in California. The idea to form a historical society was conceived November 1, 1883. HSSC was incorporated February 13, 1891. HSSC's first president Col. J. J. Warner delivered the inaugural address on January 7, 1884, and he spoke on the origin, aims and objects of the newly formed organization. The inaugural address was published in volume 1, 1884-91, of the Publications of the Historical Society of Southern California. There was a collective concern that at the conclusion of an 1881 centennial celebration of the founding of Los Angeles that the city lacked a historical society. The founders lamented the "flood of immigrants" and the impending disappearance of old landmarks. Primary HSSC objectives were the collection and preservation of historical matters, and additionally, a focus on science and scientific methods. Another important objective was to publish materials that had permanent value. For additional reference, consult "Thirty-Three Years of History Activities" by J.M. Guinn, published in Volume 10, Part I, 1915-17, pages 16-23, of the Publications of the Historical Society of Southern California

Ira Moore, the HSSC Curator, wrote on July 1, 1891, that "our collection is at present boxed and stored in the museum at the State Normal School building in this city<sup>1</sup>... as the society expects to soon have ample quarters in the new county court-house, where the collection can be properly displayed and cataloged..." His optimism, eight years into the formation of the Society, was fulfilled when the red sandstone Courthouse building opened later that year.

HSSC member H.D. Barrows wrote in a speech delivered June 19, 1908 that all the material gathered in the past 25 years were "boxed up and stored in a warehouse lately built by the county on New High Street." He went on to say that a "ton of materials" had already been donated to the City Library and that the collection of longtime member Antonio Coronel was cared for and exhibited by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

In the ensuing years after its founding, the HSSC continued moving forward by securing administrative offices. In 1936 its address was the Southwest Museum in Highland Park. In November, 1948, the Earl Mansion at 2425 Wilshire Boulevard became the new permanent home, as was announced in The Southern California Quarterly. The mansion was torn down and the Society lost its headquarters in early 1957. By June 1957, The Quarterly listed the HSSC address at 1909 South Western Avenue. During the ensuing years between the late 1950s and early 1960s the Board of HSSC tried negotiating with Los Angeles Department of Recreation and Parks to move into the Garnier building at El Pueblo de Los Angeles State Historical Monument as well as with the County Board of Supervisors to have office space at the Natural History Museum.<sup>2</sup>

The Charles Lummis Home (El Alisal) in Highland Park, California<sup>3</sup> became HSSC's next headquarters in 1965, and lasted until 2014, when the Lummis Home was no longer available to the society. It was during these years at the Lummis Home that the HSSC decided to seek an outside institution to permanently care for a large portion of HSSC more than 15,000 photographs, negatives and lantern slides, and in 1992, the recipient research archive chosen was the Huntington Library, Art Museum and Botanical Gardens in San Marino, California. In 2014, the entire remaining collection of papers, photographs, maps, books and three-dimensional items, after the 50-year residency in Highland Park, began its transient journey from one leased public storage unit to another, except for its two-year stay (2016-2018) at the Workman and Temple Family Homestead Museum in the City of Industry, California.

In December 2017, the Workman and Temple Family Homestead Museum Director Paul R. Spitzerri blogged that the "Historical Society has had on temporary deposit" at the Homestead Museum the HSSC Collections "since the organization vacated its half-century long headquarters at the Lummis Home in Los Angeles. Thanks to the City of Industry, an agreement was made between the City, the Historical Society, and Historical Resources, Inc., the firm I acquired last year to contract manage the museum, for the company to conduct a basic inventory and assessment of the objects owned by the Society." Spitzerri concluded that the assessment would be completed in early 2018. He and an assistant presented the final report to the HSSC Board in March 2018.

In the May 2018 Board meeting of HSSC, a decision was made that the organization was no longer a collecting institution and that a suitable repository for the collection should be approached. It was decided to approach the History Department at the Natural History Museum of Los Angeles County (NHM), to determine if they would accept the major portion of the collection, and the Autry Museum of Western Heritage, Los Angeles, to see if they would take the materials relating to Charles F. Lummis, founder of the Southwest Museum, whose collections are now a major holding of the Autry. Both institutions were selected because of their long history with HSSC and their accessibility to researchers, students, and the general public. The Historical Society's long association with the Natural History Museum dates back to 1910 with the founding of the Los Angeles County Museum of History, Art and Science.

The HSSC provided one of the founding collections to the Natural History Museum. HSSC along with the Fine Arts League, the Southern Division of the Cooper Ornithological Club, and the Southern California Academy of Sciences entered into an agreement with the County of Los Angeles on February 7, 1910 to build a historical museum and art gallery. The agreement required the four groups to furnish the new museum with exhibit materials. HSSC's contributions in accordance with the agreement were each designated an accession number “A.30” denoting that they were received as museum property. Prior to the contribution, HSSC did not have a permanent home for their collection. Since then, its mission to collect historical materials on California saw its collections grow significantly while securing a place to house and properly care for these collections remained a challenge.

Beginning in August of 2018, NHM staff made several visits to the storage unit in Long Beach, California where the collections were stored after leaving the Homestead Museum. The History Department agreed to accept the bulk of the collection that did not duplicate materials already in the NHM collections and to take possession by the end of September. These collections amount to nearly 10,000 historical items ranging from 1798 to 2017.

Some items were not accepted by NHM or the Autry, so other institutions were approached including the Los Angeles Public Library, Heritage Square Museum in Highland Park, Special Collections at Chapman University, UCLA - Center for the Study of Latino Health and Culture with some objects and documents being returned to the Lummis Home (El Alisal) which is currently managed by the City of Los Angeles Department of Recreation and Parks.

A large volume of HSSC materials previously incorporated into the NHM’s founding collections includes over eight linear feet of papers and photographs currently housed in the Seaver Center for Western History Research.

Scope and Content:

The collection is arranged into five series primarily by format: Manuscripts, Photographs, Ephemera, Books, with the exception being the HSSC Business Archives. Each series have multiple subseries. The HSSC collection was moved multiple times over the decades prior to it being donated to the Seaver Center for Western History Research. As a result, the original arrangement of the collection has been lost. There are individual collections that should have stayed together but were scattered throughout the storage boxes. The collection has now been reorganized to reunite the various donations and/or collections. When known the original donor of the items to the HSSC has been noted in the comment sections of the container lists for each series/subseries.

The arrangement within each of the series/subseries is by the inventory item numbers from the collection survey conducted by Historical Resources, Inc., completed 2018. There are two exceptions the first is the HSSC Business Archives which is arranged by year and format: business correspondence, organizational business, events and activities, photographs, The Southern California Quarterly (SCQ), and other publications attributed to HSSC. The second is the Los Angeles Herald Examiner photographs which are arranged by the Examiner numbers.

There is a content list for each series/subseries.

This series includes correspondence, documents, and history about the organization, flyers, exhibitions, publications and photographs. Note the organization's business records with regards to the operations of the HSSC Headquarters at the Lummis Home (El Alisal) dating 1965 and 2012 were left at the house. Scattered throughout the entire collection is correspondence between HSSC and donors to the Society regarding the items that they donated to the organization; this information has been added to the appropriate 2018 Inventory Number. The HSSC manuscripts 2018 Inventory numbers [4928-4931] have been moved to Manuscript Series because they did not relate to the years in the "archive" folders listed in the inventory. Also removed from this series are 2018 Inventory numbers [4939-4930] which are ephemera items and they have been integrated into the ephemera series. The organization of the collection when donated to the Seaver Center, varied from one box to another. The series is largely unprocessed.

In 1982 the HSSC held an exhibition honoring Leo Politi. The exhibition was held at El Alisal (Charles F. Lummis Home, Los Angeles, California) which at that time was the headquarters for the Historical Society of Southern California. The information, correspondence with government officials congratulating Leo Politi, these are in the HSSC Business correspondence for 1982 and some of the fliers are in the 1982 events folders, the photographs of the event are in the subseries. There are also two lithographs – one of the Los Angeles Plaza and another of the S. J. Lewis Mansion, which are signed and numbered. See 2018 Inventory numbers: 1521, 1722, [4976], [5013], and [5014].
